Whitehall, October 9, 1780.

THIS Morning Captain Roſs, Aid de Camp to Lieutenant-General Earl Cornwallis, arrived in Town from South Carolina, with a Letter from his Lordſhip to Lord George Germain, One of His Majeſty's Principal Secretaries of State, of which the following is a Copy.

Camden, Auguſt 21, 1780.

MY LORD,

IT is with great Pleaſure that I communicate to your Lordſhip an Account of a complete Victory obtained on the 16th Inſtant, by His Majeſty's Troops under my Command, over the Rebel Southern Army commanded by General Gates.

In my Diſpatch No. 1. I had the Honor to inform your Lordſhip, that while at Charles-Town I was regularly acquainted by Lord Rawdon with every material Incident or Movement made by the Enemy, or by the Troops under his Lordſhip's Command. On the 9th Inſtant two Expreſſes arrived, with an Account that General Gates was advancing towards Lynche's Creek with his whole Army, ſuppoſed to amount to 6000 Men, excluſive of a Detachment of 1000 Men under General Sumpter, who, after having in vain attempted to force the Poſts at Rocky Mount and Hanging Rock, was believed to be at that Time trying to get round the Left of our Poſition, to cut off our Communication with the Congarees and Charles-Town; that the diſaffected Country between Pedee and Black River had actually revolted; and that Lord Rawdon was contracting his Poſts, and preparing to aſſemble his Force at Camden.

In conſequence of this Information, after finiſhing ſome important Points of Buſineſs at Charles Town, I ſet out on the Evening of the 10th, and arrived at Camden on the Night between the 13th and 14th, and there found Lord Rawdon with our whole Force, except Lieutenant Colonel Turnbull's ſmall Detachment, which fell back from Rocky Mount to Major Ferguſon's Poſts of the Militia of Ninety ſix on Little River.

I had now my Option to make, either to retire or attempt the Enemy; for the Poſition at Camden was a bad one to be attacked in, and by General Sumpter's advancing down the Wateree my Supplies muſt have failed me in a few Days.

I ſaw no Difficulty in making good my Retreat to Charles-Town with the Troops that were able to march; but, in taking that Reſolution, I muſt have not only left near 800 Sick and a great Quantity of Stores at this Place, but I clearly ſaw the Loſs of the whole Province, except Charles Town, and of all Georgia, except Savannah, as immediate Conſequences, beſides forfeiting all Pretenſions to future Confidence from our Friends in this Part of America.

On the other Hand, there was no Doubt of the Rebel Army being well appointed. and of its Number being upwards of 5000 Men, excluſive of General Sumpter's Detachment, and of a Corps of Virginia Militia of 12 or 1500 Men, either actually joined or expected to join the Main Body every Hour; and my own Corps, which never was numerous, was now reduced, by Sickneſs and other Caſualties, to about 1400 Fighting Men of Regulars and Provincials, with 4 or 500 Militia and North Carolina Refugees.

However, the greateſt Part of the Troops that I had being perfectly good, and having left Charles-Town ſufficiently garriſoned and provided for a Siege, and ſeeing little to loſe by a Defeat, and much to gain by a Victory, I reſolved to take the firſt good Opportunity to attack the Rebel Army

Accordingly, I took great Pains to procure good Information of their Movements and Poſition; and I learned that they had encamped, after marching from Hanging Rock, at Colonel Rugeley's, about Twelve Miles from hence, on the Afternoon of the 14th.

After conſulting ſome intelligent People, well acquainted with the Ground, I determined to march at Ten o'Clock on the Night of the 15th, and to attack at Day-break, pointing my principal Force againſt their Continentals, who from good Intelligence I knew to be badly poſted cloſe to Colonel Rugeley's Houſe. Late in the Evening I received Information, that the Virginians had joined that Day: However, that having been expected, I did not alter my Plan, but marched at the Hour appointed, leaving the Defence of Camden to ſome Provincials, Militia, and Convaleſcents, and a Detachment of the 63d Regiment, which, by being mounted on Horſes which they had preſſed on the Road, it was hoped would arrive in the Courſe of the Night.

I had proceeded Nine Miles, when about Half an Hour paſt Two in the Morning, my Advanced Guard fell in with the Enemy. By the Weight of the Fire I was convinced they were in conſiderable Force, and was ſoon aſſured by ſome Deſerters and Priſoners, that it was the Whole Rebel Army on its March to attack us at Camden. I immediately halted and formed, and, the Enemy doing the ſame, the Firing ſoon ceaſed. Confiding in the diſciplined Courage of His Majeſty's Troops, and well apprized by ſeveral intelligent Inhabitants, that the Ground on which both Armies ſtood, being narrowed by Swamps on the Right and Left, was extremely favorable for my Numbers, I did not chuſe to hazard the great Stake for which I was going to fight, to the Uncertainty and Confuſion to which an Action in the Dark is ſo particularly liable: But having taken Meaſures that the Enemy ſhould not have it in their Power to avoid an Engagement on that Ground, I reſolved to defer the Attack till Day. At the Dawn I made my laſt laſt Diſpoſition, and formed the Troops in the following Order: The Diviſion of the Right, conſiſting of a ſmall Corps of Light Infantry, the 23d and 33d Regiments, under the Command of Lieutenant-Colonel Webſter; the Diviſion of the Left, conſiſting of the Volunteers of Ireland, Infantry of the Legion, and Part of Lieutenant-Colonel Hamilton's North Carolina Regiment under the Command of Lord Rawdon with 2 Six and 2 Three Pounders, which were commanded by Lieutenant M'Leod. The 71ſt Regiment with 2 Six-pounders was formed as a Reſerve, One Battalion in the Rear of the Diviſion of the Right, the other of that of the Left, and the Cavalry of the Legion in the Rear, and the Country being woody, cloſe to the 71ſt Regiment, with Orders to ſeize any Opportunity that might offer to break the Enemy's Line, and to be ready to protect our own, in caſe any Corps ſhould meet with a Check.

[Price Three-Pence Halfpenny.]

This Diſpoſition was juſt made when I perceived that the Enemy, having likewiſe perſiſted in their Reſolution to fight, were formed in Two Lines oppoſite and near to us; and obſerving a Movement on their Left, which I ſuppoſed to be with an Intention to make ſome Alteration in their Order, I directed Lieutenant-Colonel Webſter to begin the Attack, which was done with great Vigor, and in a few Minutes the Action was general along the whole Front. It was at this Time a dead Calm, with a little Hazineſs in the Air, which, preventing the Smoke from riſing, occaſioned ſo thick a Darkneſs, that it was difficult to ſee the Effect of a very heavy and well-ſupported Fire on both Sides. Our Line continued to advance in good Order, and with the cool Intrepidity of experienced Britiſh Soldiers, keeping up a conſtant Fire, or making Uſe of Bayonets, as Opportunities offered; and, after an obſtinate Reſiſtance during Three Quarters of an Hour, threw the Enemy into total Confuſion, and forced them to give Way in all Quarters. At this Inſtant I ordered the Cavalry to complete the Rout, which was performed with their uſual Promptitude and Gallantry; and after doing great Execution on the Field of Battle, they continued the Purſuit to Hanging Rock, 22 Miles from the Place where the Action happened, during which many of the Enemy were ſlain, a Number of Priſoners, near 150 Waggons, (in One of which was a Braſs Cannon, the Carriage of which had been damaged in the Skirmiſh of the Night) a conſiderable Quantity of Military Stores, and all the Baggage and Camp Equipage of the Rebel Army, fell into our Hands.

The Loſs of the Enemy was very conſiderable; a Number of Colours, and Seven Pieces of Braſs Cannon, (being all their Artillery that were in the Action) with all their Ammunition Waggons, were taken; between Eight and Nine Hundred were killed, among that Number Brigadier-General Gregory, and about One Thouſand Priſoners, many of whom wounded, of which Number were Major-General Baron de Kalb, ſince dead, and Brigadier-General Rutherford.

I have the Honour to incloſe a Return of Killed and Wounded on our Side. The Loſs of ſo many brave Men is much to be lamented; but the Number is moderate in Proportion to ſo great an Advantage.

The Behavior of His Majeſty's Troops in general was beyond all Praiſe; it did Honor to themſelves and to their Country. I was particularly indebted to Colonel Lord Rawdon and to Lieutenant-Colonel Webſter for the diſtinguiſhed Courage and Ability with which they conducted their reſpective Diviſions, and the Capacity and Vigor of Lieutenant-Colonel Tarleton at the Head of the Cavalry deſerve my higheſt Commendations; Lieutenant M'Leod exerted himſelf greatly in the Conduct of our Artillery. My Aid de Camp Captain Roſs, and Lieutenant Haldane of the Engineers, who acted in that Capacity, rendered me moſt eſſential Service; and the Public Officers, Major of Brigade England, who acted as Deputy Adjutant-General, and the Majors of Brigade Manley and Doyle ſhewed the moſt active and zealous Attention to their Duty; Governor Martin became again a Military Man, and behaved with the Spirit of a young Volunteer.

The Fatigue of the Troops rendered them incapable of further Exertion on the Day of the Action; but as I ſaw the Importance of deſtroying or diſperſing, if poſſible, the Corps under Gen Sumpter, as it might prove a Foundation for aſſembling the routed Army, on the Morning of the 17th I detached Lieut. Colonel Tarleton with the Legion Cavalry and Infantry, and the Corps of Light Infantry, making in all about 350 Men, with Orders to attack him where-ever he could find him; and at the ſame Time I ſent Orders to Lieutenant-Colonel Turnbull and Major Ferguſon, at that Time on Little River, to put their Corps in Motion immediately, and on their Side to purſue and endeavour to attack General Sumpter. Lieutenant-Colonel Tarleton executed this Service with his uſual Activity and Military Addreſs. He procured good Information of Sumpter's Movements, and, by forced and concealed Marches, came up with and ſurprized him in the Middle of the Day on the 18th, near the Catawba Fords: He totally deſtroyed or diſperſed his Detachment, conſiſting then of 700 Men, killing 150 on the Spot, and taking two Pieces of Braſs Cannon and 300 Priſoners, and 44 Waggons. He likewiſe retook 100 of our Men, who had fallen into their Hands partly at the Action at Hanging Rock, and partly in eſcorting ſome Waggons from Congarees to Camden; and he releaſed 150 of our Militia-Men, or friendly Country People, who had been ſeized by the Rebels. Captain Campbell, who commanded the Light Infantry, a very promiſing Officer, was unfortunately killed in this Affair. Our Loſs otherwiſe was trifling. This Action was too brilliant to need any Comment of mine, and will, I have no Doubt, highly recommend Lieutenant-Colonel Tarleton to His Majeſty's Favour. The Rebel Forces being at preſent diſperſed, the internal Commotions and Inſurrections in the Province will now ſubſide. But I ſhall give Directions to inflict exemplary Puniſhment on ſome of the moſt guilty, in Hopes to deter others, in Future, from ſporting with Allegiance and Oaths, and with the Lenity and Generoſity of the Britiſh Government.

On the Morning of the 17th I diſpatched proper People into North Carolina, with Directions to our Friends there to take Arms and aſſemble immediately, and to ſeize the moſt violent People, and all Military Stores and Magazines belonging to the Rebels, and to intercept all Stragglers from the routed Army; and I have promiſed to march without Loſs of Time to their Support: Some neceſſary Supplies for the Army are now on their Way from Charles-Town, and I hope that their Arrival will enable me to move in a few Days.

My Aid de Camp, Captain Roſs, will have the Honor of delivering this Diſpatch to your Lordſhip, and will be able to give you the fulleſt Account of the State of the Army and the Country. He is a very deſerving Officer, and I take the Liberty of recommending him to your Lordſhip's Favour and Patronage.

I have the Honor to be, &c.
